Second Sunday of Lent

Praised be Jesus Christ!

Growing up, my family always attended Sunday Mass (and Holy Days of Obligation) and went to confession with some regularity. But Friday Stations of the Cross during Lent was not a normal part of our Lenten devotions. If I had to guess, I would say that I probably attended only a half-dozen times during my grade school and high school years.

However, it was actually one of those admittedly infrequent visits to my home parish Lenten Stations that left me with a profound childhood memory.

On that particular Friday evening, the Stations were entirely lay organized and led. There were no servers and no candles. I'm sure that one of the parishioners must have carried the processional cross from Station to Station (I really don't remember). A layman from the parish read out the reflections and we followed along in our booklets. I can't imagine that more than 20 or 25 people were in attendance.

As we neared the last several Stations, I noticed that the voice of the layman reading out the meditations began to crack. He was choking back emotion, struggling to maintain composure and finish his role. By the end, his eyes were filled with visible tears, his face was red with sorrow, and he was whimpering, completely unable to speak.

It was striking as a child to see a grown man cry — and to cry publicly, at that. I remember feeling almost awkward that I had witnessed it, like I had stepped into a private situation where I didn't belong. And I even wondered if something else I had completely missed happened to this man — my impression of him was that he was normally rather stoic and non-emotional.

But of course I grasped intuitively what had actually happened. This man was moved with real, visible sorrow on account of the Passion of Our Lord. That small-town, sparsely attended Lenten Stations devotion had made the sufferings of Christ and the reality of his love for us so intensely real, that a grown man broke down in tears in a public setting.

Witnessing that simple moment concretized the importance of Our Lord's suffering and death for me more than 100 catechism lessons could ever do. To this day, I think about it almost every time that I do the Stations of the Cross.

My point is that our Catholic liturgy and devotional life is meant to convey the truth and gravity of the faith in powerful, non-verbal ways. As composites of body and soul, we need to "experience" in physical, bodily ways the sacred mysteries that teach in abstract conceptual form in catechesis.

And this is a reminder (especially to young parents) that you just don't know what particular event or occasion might provide that sort of profound experience that helps to connect some intellectual truth with a deep and lasting emotional memory that speaks more powerfully than words alone can convey.

I hope that many more will consider attending our Solemn Stations of the Cross on Fridays at 5:45pm (preceded by a Holy Hour and confessions). Also note: There will be a Meatless Lenten Potluck immediately following the Stations on March 6th.

In the hearts of Jesus and Mary,

Fr. Van Lieshout

St. Vincent DePaul Society

The St. Vincent DePaul Society, a Catholic lay ministry focused on spiritual growth through service, is hoping to form a parish conference in the Cathedral parish, to respond to unmet needs in the northwest city neighborhoods.

If you are looking for ways to live your faith more deeply through service, we invite you to attend an informational meeting at Sacred Heart Cathedral on Thursday, March 25 at 6:00 pm in the narthex. Feel free to contact Earl Voss with any questions or to RSVP at evo683@gmail.com

In your charity, please pray for the repose of the soul of Maureen Biancucci, and all our faithful departed

Eternal rest grant unto them, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon them. May they rest in peace.

Sick, Infirm and Homebound

Because of HIPAA laws, the only way the Parish Staff learns of parishioners who are ill or infirmed is if the parishioner, or a family member notifies the office.

If you, or someone you know is ill, hospitalized or moved to a nursing facility or family member's home, please let the Cathedral Office know.

If you/they are unable to attend Mass, please contact the office to arrange to receive communion.

If a family member has gone to hospice care or needs healing prayers, the Sacrament of Anointing of the Sick can be administered by a priest. Please call the office at
